SELECTION OF WORKS

2.1 Lumen's International Selection Committee ("ISC") of gallery owners, curators, artists and academics will choose works for the 2018 Lumen Prize Longlist which will be featured in The Lumen Prize online gallery. For the full list of the ISC panelists, please contact info@lumenprize.com. The Longlist will be announced in July on a date to be selected by the Organiser. Please check the website for more details.

2.2 A public vote of those chosen for the Longlist will be launched and promoted by the Organiser as the People's Choice Award in August 2018. Any cases of spam or computer-generated voting detected will immediately disqualify the entry deemed to be benefiting from this activity. The work receiving the most votes from the public will win The Lumen Prize People's Choice Award 2018 and receive a cash prize of US$250. In the unlikely event of a draw, the Lumen Jury Panel will select the winner.

2.3 The Lumen Jury Panel of eminent art experts will select the finalists and the top cash prize winners. The Winners will be announced in late September at an Awards Ceremony in a location and on a date that is to be selected by the Organiser.

2.4 The notification to successful entrants will be made individually by the Organiser via the email address specified on the Registration Form. Artists whose works have not qualified for the Longlist will not be individually notified. If your work has not been included in the Longlist, we regret that we do not have the resources to provide feedback.

2.5 Entrants may at any time notify the Organiser at info@lumenprize.com if they wish to remove their work(s) from the competition after submission and, if they are selected, before the online publication of The Lumen Longlist in September. Please note that once a work has been submitted, the entrance fee will not be refunded, even where the work is subsequently removed (whether by the Organiser or the entrant).

2.6 Once selected as a Lumen finalist, artists are eligible for a range of opportunities regardless of whether their work wins one of the Lumen Prizes. These include the possibility of selection for Lumen Prize exhibitions, commissions and events over the next 12 months and in the future. Longlisted works may also be eligible for these opportunities at the discretion of the Organiser. Please note: Curation and curators for each show will vary from location to location.
